der the circumstances. The office, it is true, is a small one, and we only allude to it as one which might form a precedent, or become one of a class. It is also proper to remark that, as individuals, the gentlemen referred to, of both parties, are, so far as we know, above reproach.

We consider ourselves, and we believe justly, as be ing extremely liberal party men-that is, we never allow our party feelings or predilections to step one inch beyond their legitimate sphere, but within that sphere we adhere strictly to the principles of our party, and give all our influence, small or great, to the maintenance of the organization necessary to give these principles full force and effect. Without the maintenance of such organization, we might as well have no party at all.

Mexican Affairs Again.

The ink was scarcely dry, after our late article on Mexico, when intelligence arrived that the new Pres dent had quarrelled with Congress, had called in the aid of the military, and had turned the deputies into the streets. The prospect of a peaceful and constitutional remedy, which the retirement of Arista held fresh, vans thus forever. The news further informs us that Ceballos, the present executive, has directed that hostilities against Uraga shall cease. This would seem to imply that an understanding exists between the civic and military leader; that the elevation of Ceballos was the result of an intrigue; and that perhaps both Arista and the Congress have been duped by the two corspirators. But he this as it may, the rits turpentine, 86,000 shingles. momentary glimpse of better things, which the resignation of Arista exhibited, has passed away, and we fear forever, Indeed, everything tends to show McRae & Co. that the Mexican commonwealth is fast going to pieces. The ship is already on the rocks, and quivers with every new surge of revolation. The strong arm with 64 passengers of military may avert total ruin for awhile, by driving all hands to the pumps; but even Santa Anna cannot permanently keep the weak and shattered states together; and ultimately there will be a complete break up of one rich and splendid province, the pride of the Spanish crown, leaving a mass of broken timbers and floating fragments, for neighboring nations to pick up.
